

Engage Mentoring:

Mentoring programs made easy

Engage Mentoring is a plug and play software program created to simplify the mentoring process for our clients and to give them ways to collaborate and share best practices. We have the unique feature of specializing in external mentoring programs and cross-company mentoring programs.

Alison Martin is the Founder and CEO of Engage Mentoring, a plug and play mentoring software solution for companies wishing to offer a structured mentoring program to skill up their employee population.

With impressive background work and roughly 20 years in nonprofit, beginning with four years working in higher education and on to Executive Director at two different health-related nonprofit organizations, Alison's passion for developing talent led her to start a consulting firm, Diverse Talent Strategies, in 2011. Her work in developing large scale mentoring programs led her to the development of the Engage Mentoring software, which launched in January 2019 and spun out as a separate entity in 2020

"What I enjoy most is the opportunity it provides our team to mentor and be mentored by a broad and diverse group beyond your organization. It expands our experience, knowledge and influence that supports our culture and brand. Personally, I enjoy mentoring because of what I continue to learn in the process, and what I remember I should be doing in leading my leadership team." - Don Cates, CEO of 3Rivers Federal Credit Union
